Notes

1. Figures are as of census day, 27 March 2011.
2. Percentages may not sum to 100% as they are rounded to one decimal place.
3. Where numbers are small relative to totals, the percentage may show as 0.0% due to this rounding.
4. Labels / data in italics are sub-divisions of the total separate to those above the total row or associated data that is not otherwise part of the total figure.
5. The Office for National Statistics (ONS) has a legal obligation not to reveal census data about individual people and households. The confidentiality of all census results is protected by a combination of a variety of disclosure protection measures.
6. In the 2011 Census it was not mandatory to answer the question on religion so a notable proportion of people are recorded under 'Religion Not Stated'.
